ARTICLE V – PRICES FORK OBSERVATORY

Section 1. Access. Access to the Prices Fork Observatory (herein referred to as “the Observatory”) is a privilege extended to certain members in good standing, and that privilege may be revoked.

Section 2. Permissions. Permission to use the Observatory will require that the eligible person be 1) a member of the organization, 2) approved without strong objection from all the elected officers and/or faculty advisor, 3) able to show that they can operate the telescope in a proficient and responsible manner, and 4) tested and approved by an officer who is also certified to use the Observatory. Access will generally be provided to members who are students of Virginia Tech only. Any members who are not students must gain approval of the faculty advisor to be granted access.

Section 3. Testing. A qualified member will be tested before they are given access to the Observatory. The test will require that the eligible member be able to set up, run, and shut down the telescope without direction from the accompanying officer. The eligible member must also show familiarity with the rules and practices of the Observatory in general, including proper security of all access points to the Observatory.

Section 4. Distribution of Keys. There are four sets of keys to the Observatory. One shall be in the possession of the faculty advisor, one shall be in possession of the ACVT President, and one shall be in the possession of the individual hired by the Physics Department to hold weekly Open Houses at the Observatory. The fourth shall be in possession of a party who is authorized to loan the keys out to members who have been granted access. This party shall be supplied with an updated list of approved members, their Virginia Tech ID numbers or Driver’s License numbers if they are not students, and their phone numbers.

Section 5. Borrowing a Key. A member granted access to the Observatory may borrow a set of keys from the party mentioned in Section 4. To do so, they must sign the keys out from the aforementioned party and show their ID to that party. Those who sign out the keys may keep them for a maximum of 24 hours after they are checked out. If the keys are signed out on a Friday, they may be kept over the weekend and returned the following business day.

Section 6. Expectations of Conduct. Any members given access to the Observatory are expected to behave in a manner consistent with the rules of the Organization, the rules of Virginia Tech, and with the law in general. Any guests who accompany an approved member to the Observatory are the responsibility of that member, and it is up to the member to make sure that their guests behave in an acceptable manner.

Section 7. Revocation of Privilege. If an approved member is found to act in a manner which violates the provisions of Section 6 or any other manner which is deemed inappropriate, their privilege to use the Observatory may immediately be revoked.
